

MEMORANDUM FOR: Comptroller

Maury:

John wants to make sure that the answer to Question 24 does not open the door for [redacted] targeting the Soviet Union. He would therefore like the answer to be rewritten to include the main thrust of the following:

CIA supported the concept of [redacted] going forward initially as a means of collecting against Third World targets to support the requirements of the Rapid Deployment Force. As experience is gained and the organization settles down we will then consider the possibility of [redacted] for hard targets, such as the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union remains a high priority, but we have a fairly good collection program on its doctrine and practices and do not need any duplication in that effort.
